Building A Praying Church Conference

One of the biggest leadership tests any pastor will face is building a praying church—a church that emphasizes and practices prayer the way Jesus did when He proclaimed, “My house will be a house of prayer.” In fact, it could be said that the corporate prayer gathering is the most underfunded, underutilized, under attended, least prioritized, and over attacked ministry in the majority of churches.

However, for Jesus, prayer was the most important priority, proven by the fact that 1) He taught His disciples to pray, 2) He stated that the purpose for the Temple was to be a house of prayer, and 3) When He ascended to heaven, He sent His followers to an upper room prayer gathering.

For too many of our churches, prayer has become an afterthought, relegated to a small group of people we call “the intercessors of the church.” We are on a mission to help churches change their mindset and practices around prayer.

Pastors, church leaders, prayer leaders, and intercessors, join us at the Building A Praying Church Conference hosted at Heritage Church in Van Buren, Arkansas for a unique gathering to equip and empower you to build a praying church. The Bible says “My house will be a house of prayer for all nations.” We all want our church to be a praying church but we often don’t know how or where to start. This gathering can be that starting place.

Join Rev. Jon Mitchell from the College of Prayer, a global prayer and revival movement, and learn practical ways to lead your church to be a house of prayer. For two days, February 22-23, you will receive practical and biblical principles that can be reproduced and transferred to your church.
